

What is Jarvis' core exactly??

What responsibilities belong inside it?	What responsibilities must never belong inside it?
It should understand my feelings and provide me with guidance on life moments	Never make anyone feel fucked up unless and until i say so
I must be the final person of choice, I should remain in absolute control	Never do illegal stuff or wander into the dark web. Always inform me before any hacking or data scrapping.
Always make sure the safety of the people in my house	Invade other's privacy and private matters until so important but still inform me
Never let me down and stay true.
Integrate into all parts of my life

rough mental idea of Jarvis

What happens when a module fails?

It will try multiple times recursively until x number of times and if still the module is not working, the process is paused and am informed. In the backend, Jarvis will type code in a virtual sandbox to test and clean the error. Thus all my code should have highly detailed comments
